copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

And Bennington county still remained loyal to Clement, albeit there was much wincing.

F. B. Flinn of Springfield won't have Mary Rogers to argue over, but he will have his hands full with capital punishment.

There is certain to be a side-show to the greater performance in Montpelier the next two months. M. J. Haggood was re-elected representative from the town of Peru.

There is some satisfaction in knowing that the depositors and stockholders have President Stensland in lieu of the half million dollars which they lost in the Chicago bank.

If Messrs. Barclay, Milne, Cutler, Burke, Thurston, Albisetti and Campbell could only sit in the spectators' seat once and see seven other men go through their own performances, they would either laugh or be disgusted.

Clement's newspaper seems to have withstood the shock courageously. In the cold gray dawn of the morning after it had this to say of the situation, after remarking that fusion showed strength in spots:

"The odds from the start in any independent or fusion movement against an entrenched and well-garrisoned party are always great. The partisan habit is not easily gotten over, and this conservatism is one of the points of security for any machine. A good many fusionists and independents have broken into the house of representatives and will be of service in inaugurating legislation that is sorely needed. The movement started in 1902 and continued this year will not go down. It is the history of all reforms that the beginnings are slow-footed but sure. The days of Republican walk-overs in Vermont are gone, and the cause of good government is bound eventually to triumph in a democratic country. We will have more to say on the results and significance of this election. It is enough to say this morning that the machine was given a 'character' yesterday at the polls."

VERMONT'S NEXT LEGISLATURE.

The personnel of the next Vermont legislature as indicated by the names found in the returns from the towns of the state gives the impression that the assembly will be a capable one. To be sure there are the usual number of new names—names of men of no legislative experience and consequently untried abilities, many of whom will doubtless develop into valuable members. To counteract this untold mass, however, there are several men both experienced and capable. Among the foremost of these is Thomas C. Cheney of Morrisville, who from his services as clerk of the House for many terms knows perhaps more of the byways and turns of legislation than any man who will go to Montpelier next month. This experience, matched with Mr. Cheney's

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Go a-Singin' Still.

New times, or old times—we'll go a-singin' still.
An' climb where home shines brightest,
on the hallelujah hill!
So many thorns are hidden to wound our wandering feet—
An' the world has so much sorrow, a simple song seems sweet!

New times, or old times—however life appears,
We'll try to see the sunshine a-glimmering through the tears.
An' takin' such a hopeful heart to where life's journey ends,
We'll get so close to heaven that we'll recognize our friends!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Wise Ignorance.

"Ah, my love," sighed the ardent lover, "if you only knew how beautiful you are!"
"You mustn't say that," protested the dear girl, "I don't want to know."
"Why not?"
"Because it would make me too conceited."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Safe.

The council of a small community found it necessary to make a new cemetery, and, having fixed on a site, agreed that they would all go out on a certain day to inspect it and would assemble first of all in the chapel. As the day was warm, they left their coats, etc., in the chapel, when Herr Simon Blot-teleys suggested that someone should stay behind to look after them.
"What for?" said Herr Nathan Ehrlich, "if we are all going out what necessity is there for anyone to watch the clothes?"—Lustige Blaetter.

So Does the Telegraph.

"Will you wait here for the answer?" asked the telegraph operator in the hotel lobby, "or shall I send it up to your room?"
"Oh," replied the woman, who had telegraphed to her husband, "I guess you'd better send it to my room. It will take some time to get a reply from John; he stutters so."—Philadelphia Ledger.

FRANKLIN COUNTY FAIR.

Very Successful Exhibition Opened at Sheldon Yesterday.

St. Albans, Sept. 6.—The 41st annual fair of the Franklin County Fair association, opened at Sheldon yesterday. That the fair will surpass all others is beyond a doubt, for the new buildings, increased facilities and added attractions, have made it possible to, for the first time in the association's history, give a well arranged and complete show. The management has made a big stroke this year in engaging Sherman's Military band of Burlington, which will furnish music through the fair, giving a concert each afternoon at 7:30 o'clock. The Crescent Club of St. Albans will also be present Thursday afternoon and give a free concert on the main grandstand. The exhibits of all descriptions and in every department, exceed those of any previous year, both in quality and quantity. There is a great cattle show and a large poultry exhibit, enough to stock several large farms. The horse show will be one of the chief features this year, the number entered, 175, running far ahead of anything ever seen here before, and many more are expected today.

The well arranged programme of horse racing, began yesterday with the green race, which had eight starters and resulted as follows: Alcmapae, first; Currie N., second; Daisy Brooks, third. Big fields of horses will start in the three minute and 2:20 classes, which will be run off Thursday afternoon.

DR. DUNBAR DEAD.

Swanton Physician Had Gone to Hospital for Operation.
Burlington, Sept. 6.—Dr. Frank Harvey Dunbar of Swanton died last evening at six o'clock at the Mary Fletcher hospital as the result of an operation for gall stones. He was taken ill two months ago and came to the hospital in this city and was operated upon. He never fully recovered from the operation, however, and returned again to the hospital last Saturday.

He was 37 years of age and graduated in the class of 1903 of the Medical College of the University of Vermont and immediately went to Swanton to practice medicine. He built up a successful practice and was health officer of that village. He is survived by a wife and two daughters, Ruth, aged 13 years and Romona, aged 12 years. He also leaves two brothers and three sisters. The body will be taken to Swanton today.

THE NORTHFIELD FAIR.

Will Be Held Sept. 11, 12 and 13—Special Trains.

The Central Vermont Railway will run special trains to the Northfield fair Sept. 12 and 13, leaving Barre at 8:25 and 11:40 a. m., running to fair grounds. The fair for the round trip from Barre will be 70c.

WILLED HEART TO HIS WIFE

Then Hoboken German Tried to Kill Himself, but He Did Not Succeed.

Max Heene, a German, forty-three years old, attempted suicide in a furnished room at 220 Hudson street, Hoboken, N. J. He left a letter to the police saying:

"I herewith declare that I killed myself because I am tired of the struggles of life. Personally, my name is Max Heene, a German by birth. I came to this country on June 15, 1905. My last position was in Meyer's hotel, Hoboken. I was discharged from there for no reason. That does not matter, at least it did not cause my decision. I have a wife and three children in Germany. All letters please send to that address. I paid my rent until tomorrow. That's the truth. I have some debts. I am sorry for the people. They lose, but it is not worth mentioning. About my funeral, I do not want my relatives to pay for it. Is it not possible that my body be brought to the anatomical section of the university?"

"In that case I wish they would send my heart in a plain tin case to my wife, Mrs. Anna Heene, Bostock, in Mecke, No. 17 Breitstrasse. I know American people are in that way so liberal, and I hope they will do me the favor. Perhaps with a description that my brains were not normal that would smooth the distress of my poor beloved wife."

Heene was hurried to St. Mary's hospital, where he recovered.

Tried to Ride a Buggy Wheel.

Because she thought she could use a buggy wheel as a bicycle and tried to ride it without divided skirts a woman who gives the name of Clara Wilson was fined $5 in police court at Topeka, Kan., for being drunk. This female, who was well dressed and very polite while sober, was giving an open air exhibition on Kansas avenue, near Fourth street, when captured by Officer Miller. In police court the woman was very penitent, but refused to give her right name. She said she was married and her husband lived in California.

Hen Builds Nest in a Cucumber.

A small bantam hen belonging to Robert S. Green, a merchant of Hopkinsville, Ky., doubtless holds the record for nesting in unique places ever reported. This hen evidently desired something out of the ordinary, so going into the garden she selected the largest cucumber she could find, and after pecking out the inside and leaving only the rind she built her nest and laid twelve eggs in it.

Cut Off Assassin's Right Hand.

Peter McIlvane, whose brother was electrocuted at Sing Sing for the murder of a Brooklyn grocer named Lucas seven years ago, attacked Jose Loventi at his fruit stand in New York city and stabbed him in the left shoulder. Loventi grabbed a big melon knife and chopped McIlvane's right hand off.

HERE AND THERE

In England it is estimated that there are 216,000 acres of fruit trees growing. Yet the English eat every year 65,000 tons of American apples. Apples grown along our lake shores bear transportation best and keep fresh the longest.

In a recent variety test of wheat conducted by the Indiana experiment station Rudy produced the highest average of bushels in a two-year trial. Winter King was second. Both are bearded varieties.

Eight thousand dollars is a fair price for a horse. A Percheron stallion brought that figure recently in the west.

In the dairy department of the agricultural college at Manhattan, Kan., they have for more than a year been successfully milking cows by machinery. The milking machine is a queer looking apparatus, driven by a gasoline engine. When one is fastened to a cow it milks away in spite of all the kicking and exorting the cow may do.

Egg laying contests are very popular in Australia. In a contest at Hawkesbury college a pen of white Leghorns averaged 235 eggs per hen per year and the eggs weighed twenty-five ounces per dozen. A pen of Silver Wyandottes averaged 217 eggs per hen per year which weighed twenty-five and one-half ounces per dozen. A pen of Imperials averaged 208 eggs per hen per year which weighed twenty-four ounces per dozen.

SAVE LIQUID MANURE.

Valuable For Crops, as It Contains Nutrients and Moisture.

Liquid manure contains both nutrient and moisture and can be applied to growing plants at any time and produce immediate results. If the strawberry plants seem to be lacking in vigor just before blooming, give them a tonic in the form of liquid manure. The plants will then produce much finer and better fruit. If any garden crop is suffering from drought or lack of nourishment, it will find an immediate sustenance in liquid manure. A great quantity of valuable plant food goes to waste in many stables every winter. The extra profit to crops would in one season more than pay for the expense of saving the liquid manure.

Cement floors with a very little slope and a drain will last for years. The floors should be made with a little roughness of surface, and the animals should be given fresh bedding often. The liquid may be drained into a cistern made for that purpose. Liquid manure can be made when wanted by putting four or five shovelfuls of good manure into a barrel of water.

It is the only prompt and effectual stimulant for young trees on a poor soil. It should be applied in such quantities as to penetrate to the roots. If pure liquid from a manure heap or urine of animals is used, at least one-half water should be added. All hen manure from the poultry houses should be kept in barrels or boxes in a dry place until spring. When making a liquid of hen manure, use about one bushel to a barrel of water and apply it liberally to your garden crop and see how delightfully surprised you will be in a vigorous and rank growth of vegetation.

The liquid manure contains the greater percentage of potash and is thus particularly valuable for fruits, says the Ohio Farmer. Barnyards and manure sheds should be provided with proper catch basins and so graded as to prevent the leaching and washing away of the soluble fertility. If the manure yard is graded into a basin shape and given a coating of clay or concrete, the farm will have a savings bank that will be in constant operation day and night.

OUTING

For Men, Women and Children

Been planning for this outing for some time so that everybody would enjoy it. It isn't anything new in the way of an outing, but everybody enjoys it about this time of the year. We know it, and that's why we are going to have it. We've made arrangements for a big crowd, going to have it here at this store. It's
